

Medway Food Pantries Unification

Community FAQs

When will the transition to the new shared food pantry space happen?

Our goal is to make this transition as seamless as possible for our clients, so the timeline will depend on how quickly we can prepare the new space without disrupting services. This will be a process, as the location needs work to make it fully functional. Once the space is ready, the two food pantries will move in and unite our operations. This timeline will be worked out in the next few months. We will share updates throughout the process and appreciate your patience as both organizations work toward a smooth transition and continued service to the community.

Are the food pantries closing?

No. Both food pantries will continue to operate on their current schedules. In the future, once a new local space is identified, the two will come together and operate from a single location. Until then, services will remain unchanged.

Community FAQs

Why are the food pantries uniting?

The unification is a very positive step that will allow us to better serve our community by combining resources, reducing duplication, and expanding the support we can provide to families in need.

What does this mean for volunteers?

Volunteers will still play a vital role and should continue to volunteer as they always have. There will be new opportunities once we are operating in a new space.

How will this affect donors?

Donors should continue to make donations as they always have. Once we move into a new space and are one, combined entity, we will provide new donation information.
